Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I know I'm not from USA, but this is a case that affects all globe, so I thought my opinion would be important.
When I first read the proposed settlement, I thought it was good, but reading all little lines I saw so many holes that in the end I thought nothing on it would actually work.
I think the remedies against Microsoft could be more harder, once its products are getting higher prices and nothing on this settlement seems to do something against it to protect consumers, but if those remedies are going to be imposed, justice should be 100% sure that they will work and the company that created a monopoly and is trying to extend it will not use dark clauses to avoid them.

Thanks for your precious time and sorry for my bad english.
